The Shield Of Faith

Ephesians 6:10-15

Both Origen and Jerome are correct in their interpretation of the arrows to be the devil's interjection of evil thoughts into the minds of believers, but there is no reason to limit the metaphor to this one form of attack. In addition to what has just been said, the list could include persecution from political authorities, thoughts of accusation of sin that bring intense feelings of guilt, false teaching by those who claim to be Christians, direct demonic attack through sickness and dreams, and temptations to engage in behaviors displeasing to God (e.g., spontaneous "thoughts of doubt and disobedience, rebellion, lust, malice or fear"). There can be no doubt that Paul's expression conveys "the sense of extreme danger."

Ephesians 6:15/Genesis 1-3

The core battle in everyone's life is to relate well to God, to worship him, enjoy him, experience his presence, hear his voice, trust him in everything, always call him good, obey every command (even the hard ones), and hope in him when he seems to disappear.
(Larry Crabb, Connecting)
